Mitchell: Are you kidding me with this line? I'm gonna ask Santa for the last 45 minutes of my life back.

Cameron: Oh, would you cheer up? We're in Santa's village with our daughter.

Cameron: One of my carolers - Andrew... staged a little coup... and, he, um... they kicked Cameron out of the group.

Mitchell: They're Cameron's old caroling group. They kicked him out this year.

Phil: I guess the couch did it to itself. I guess it came home after a tough day, lit up a cigarette, and then it burned itself. Is that what happened? Because that makes no sense.

Phil: One time I told Luke that if he didn't put his dirty dishes in the dishwasher, we would put them in his bed.

Claire: Phil's problem is follow-through.

Phil: We had no more dishes, so we were eating cereal out of the goldfish bowl.

Phil: Okay, guess where I'm headed. To take down the tree. That's right.

Cameron: When I was in charge, it was all about the music.

Cameron: Thanks - thanks, Santa.

Man: Can't call me that anymore. Just got canned.

Mitchell: Oh. Really?

Gloria: Oh, Papi, what's wrong?

Manny: I want to have Christmas like they do in Colombia. Jay is messing everything up.

Phil: Would it really be so bad to back down?

Claire: And have the kids never take any of our threats seriously again?

Phil: I made a mistake. And people make mistakes. And they make up for those mistakes... Mm-hmm. ...by taking their family to Italy!

Haley: Oh, my God!
