Recording 1

Hello Ian. It's Natasha. I'm sorry you're not there to receive my call, but I'm just phoning to let you know the book you ordered has just arrived. Oh, and you left your scarf last time you were browsing, so you can pick that up too! You can come and collect your things anytime during open hours tomorrow. Just give a sales associate your name; I left the book and the scarf on the service desk with a note explaining that you might stop by. And just to remind you, the cost is £16. Don't forget your loyalty card, as you might be able to get a discount. Thank you!

Recording 2

Hairdresser: What can I do for you today?

Kate: I'd like to have my hair cut to shoulder length, please. It's getting a little too long for me.

Hairdresser: Ok. And do you also want to change the colour? I think your hair would look great blonde.

Kate: No, I'll stick with the same colour thank you. I never dye my hair.

Hairdresser: Ok. Well, the price of the cut and blow-dry will be £25, is that OK?

Kate: Yes, that's fine.

Recording 3

Girl: What do you think of these?

Boy: I love the colour.

Girl: I think they're perfect for cycling to the lake this weekend.

Boy: Aren't they a bit long? You might get hot.

Girl: Well, what about these?

Boy: Much better! You can wear them with your blue trainers!

Customer: I'd like to return this pair of trousers, please. I don't like the colour.

Salesperson: Do you have your receipt?

Customer: Yes, here you are.

Salesperson: I'm sorry but I can't give you a refund, sir. This was a sale item.

Customer: But your shop policy says you give refunds within 14 days of purchase.

Salesperson: Not in this case. Sale items have never been included in that policy, I'm afraid. The best I can offer you is a voucher so that you can get something of the same value in the shop.

Recording 5
